

REPORT OIL IN
WELL AT PECOSVice President of Sunshine
Company Believes It Will Be Paying.

"Have struck oil Laura well" and "have been showing oil in slush pit."

This is the substance of a night letter received at the office of the Sunshine Oil Corporation in El Paso from the vice president of that company, B. T. Hays, at Pecos, Reeves county, Texas. The telegram was received Wednesday morning and was dated October 21. The Laura well is six miles from Pecos. The message read as follows:

"Have struck oil Laura well" and "have been showing oil in slush pit."

The depth of the well was not given nor could it be learned at the Pecos office of the Sunshine company.

Economy Is Watchword
In British Parliament

London, Eng., Oct. 22.—Economy is the watchword of the session of parliament, which opens today and efforts are made to make the session of the House of Commons to throw into the discard the military program discussed in the last budget. The new education scheme and the proposal to construct a new thousand of houses for working men.

Governmental military financial commitments, the sound policy regarding Russia, military occupation of Ireland, with a plan for Irish home rule and the labor party's desiring for the nationalization of mines and railways will be important matters to come before parliament this session.

It's Harder Now To Knock
Down Traffic Safety Posts

New concrete traffic posts have been placed by the police department at the intersection of the main streets in the safety zone and each will be placed at each of the other safety zones in El Paso. The new posts weigh 200 pounds. They are designed so as to prevent injury from carrying them off and to prevent from knocking them down as they did the previous design.

To Take Villa
Followers To ChihuahuaGovernor Ortiz Denies Any General Policy of Re-concentration.

Persons who are known to be Villa sympathizers and who have assisted the bandit in any way, may be taken with their families to Chihuahua City where they will be kept under the eye of the military authorities to prevent their giving assistance, according to Governor Ortiz, who is here en route to his home. Governor Ortiz is returning from Cuatro Ciénegas, where he recently held a lengthy conference with President Carranza regarding the policies which he intends to follow in the government of his state.

Governor Ortiz denied that any general policy of reconcentration will be followed. He said that the military authorities will be in charge of the reconcentration of the Villa followers and that the military authorities will be in charge of the reconcentration of the Villa followers and that the military authorities will be in charge of the reconcentration of the Villa followers.

To Answer Charge
Of Throwing Dishes

A woman who is registered at the police station as "Jane Doe" will appear in police court this afternoon to answer to a charge of disturbance and the use of abusive language. According to the police the woman became violent at her room in a restaurant near El Paso and San Antonio streets. Police say the woman hurled dishes at the frightened waiter, the meanwhile voicing her opinion of men in general.

Report Shows
Many Mexicans
Coming To U.S.Figures Given by Immigration Authorities Show
Big Increases.

Nearly twice as many Mexicans came to the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, as in any previous year since 1908, according to figures received here from the immigration office in Washington.

The number of Mexicans who moved into the United States during the last fiscal year was 24,844. For the same period ending June 30, 1918, the number of Mexican immigrants was 12,402. In 1917 the number was 14,438.

When the literacy bill was passed in 1917, excluding designers who could not read and write it was expected that there would be a fall in the Mexican influx. But the result was just the opposite. In view of the increased immigration, immigration authorities may they can't understand why there is a shortage of unskilled labor.

Chinese Immigrants Few.

Immigration figures received here show that from most countries immigration has greatly decreased since the war. German immigration in 1919 was less than it has been for 25 years. The total for the fiscal year of 1919 (ending June 30) was 1,027. In 1918 the number was 2,073 and in 1917 it was 2,154.

In the year just preceding the war the number of German immigrants last year was 12,302. The number of Chinese who came to America last year was 242.

The total number of immigrants coming into the United States in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, was 141,112. Of these 127,272 were men and 13,840 women. During the same year immigrants leaving the United States for foreign countries totaled 121,252.

Many From Italy.

Naturalization showing largest immigration last year was Italians and Greeks. A total of 23,243 Italians and 15,482 Greeks left for their native countries in the last fiscal year.

The immigration into the United States among professional classes, increased last year. The total professional immigration in 1919, which included actors, clergymen, literary and scientific men, musicians, government officials, doctors, artists, sculptors, teachers and other professions, was 4,272. This was an increase of about 200 over 1918. The increase among laborers was not so great, however. A decrease was noted in the servant immigration. The immigrant number of laborers totaled 111,111.

October and April seem to be the favorite months for immigration to the United States. Although May and June, too, register a larger number than the other months.

CONFEREES ARE

Producers who insist that they do not want to contribute to the creation of a single labor union in the United States which might at any time in the future attempt to organize the oil industry, have the public of the country in its grip.

Small farmers and the American representative at the labor conference in Paris which wrote the proposed oil law, which would give the oil industry a monopoly, have the public of the country in its grip.

When the agreement on the broad principle of right of workers to organize into any lawful association whatever and to be represented by a union of their own choosing seems to be the most likely prospect. Then it would develop a union of the oil workers to lay down principles in the choice of the union of their own choosing.

They must consider. Since labor is confident of excellence of its own union organizations, it cannot play in the reaction of fear to leave the matter to the individual workers to decide. Consideration of the union of the oil workers is a matter of the public interest.

Disorders at Youngstown
Continue Throughout Day

Youngstown, O., Oct. 22.—Disorder due to the employment of the negroes in the steel industry, which broke out in several parts of the city last night, continued this morning. A number of white citizens were injured and seriously, three others received minor bullet wounds and a special policeman was badly beaten up. All the streets were in a state of confusion.

This morning fights broke out in Poland avenue, near the steel and tin plate mills, which broke out in the night. The police were called to the scene and the situation was brought under control.

of these methods by which a measure of cooperation within industry may have been secured? and if necessary, to be designed by which a minimum of conflict between employers and employees may be secured? It is hoped that the industrial conference will be able to secure such cooperation and that the industrial conference will be able to secure such cooperation and that the industrial conference will be able to secure such cooperation.

It is to be expected, however, that as a whole, the plan or program can be agreed upon which will advance further the production of goods in America through the establishment of a more and more cooperative relationship between the labor and the industry. The public expects not less than that you shall have that end in view and stay together until the way is found leading to that end or until it is revealed that the men who work and the men who manage the industry are so set upon divergent paths that all effort at cooperation is doomed to failure.

Man Once Down And Out
Hits It Lucky; Pays Debt

The Associated Charities has received more than $100 recently from persons who have been benefited by the association, according to secretary J. B. Owen. A man attired in a fashionable business suit and showing other signs of prosperity entered the office of the Associated Charities Wednesday and presented the check for $100. The man explained that he had been a "down and out" for several years and had come to El Paso "flat broke and hungry and without a place to sleep."

Supreme Court Upholds
Opinion on Liability Case

Austin, Texas, Oct. 22.—By refusing a writ of error in the case of Stankley vs. Texas Employers' Insurance Association today, the supreme court upheld opinions of the lower court to the effect that the employer's liability act of 1911 does not forbid settlement of claims for compensation for injury by agreement and that the potential jurisdiction of the industrial accident board ceases when a settlement by agreement is reached.
